

Stop. Observe. Ask. Respond to Human Trafficking
A Training for Health Care and Social Service Providers

Take a Second Look

The person you are seeing may be a victim of Human Trafficking

1 in 6

Estimated number of endangered runaway youth that are likely sex trafficking victims<sup>1</sup>

Approximate percent of sex trafficking victims that have come in contact with health care professionals<sup>2</sup>

SAVE THE DATE

*The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services (HHS) will be providing the Stop. Observe. Ask. Respond to Human Trafficking (SOAR) training for health care providers, behavioral health professionals, social workers, and public health professionals on Monday, September 19, 2016.

Location:

University of Texas at El Paso
College of Health Sciences and School of Nursing
1851 Wiggins Road, RM #217
El Paso, TX 79968

Time: 12:00-3:30pm

To register for this training, click here.
Space is limited.

**Spanish interpretation available.

Postgraduate Institute for Medicine
Professional Excellence in Medical Education

Jointly provided by Postgraduate Institute for Medicine and U.S. Department of Health and Human Services.

For more information and to enroll in an upcoming SOAR training, visit <http://www.acf.gov/programs/endtrafficking/initiatives/soar>.

1. National Center for Missing and Exploited Children. "Child Sex Trafficking." <http://www.missingkids.org/1in6>

2. Lederer, L. and Wetzel C.A. The health consequences of sex trafficking and their implications for identifying victims in facilities. The Annals of Health Law. 2014;23(1):61-91